WASHINGTON.

Debate in the House on the Report of the Revenue Committee.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Jan. 19, 1869.

A most singular, important and hitherto entirely unheard of fact in the career of Gen. GRANT has lately become known to a few among the inner military circle here. It is, under existing circumstances, hardly possible that this fact should remain very long a secret, and I feel fully justified in saying in advance that this publication will call forth the full confidential history of an episode in a season in the life of one who now occupies the largest share of the attention of the American people.

In order rightly to appreciate the circumstances under which the event I am about to narrate took place, it will be necessary to briefly glance at some earlier passages in the military career of the General-in-Chief, and to bring the reader up to mid-summer of the year 1863, when he lay, encompassing in his intrenchments at Vicksburg, the Rebelling Confederacy in twin sisterhood with Slavery.

GRANT made his debut at Belmont. Now, though that affair has been simply lauded by the false information and astute criticism that have been the growth of the intervening years, yet it must not be forgotten that at the time it subjected the commander to a torrent of obloquy—from public opinion bitterly ridiculing it as a Bull's Run blunder and disaster.

With the Spring of 1862 came Donelson. Here, again, it behooves us to put out of sight the glamour of that track of splendor which GRANT's later triumphs cast back upon his earlier actions, and endeavor to realize the then estimate of his character and capacity. For, admirable as was the victory at Donelson, and spontaneous as was the burst of gratitude and joy that leaped from the national heart, the victor at that field, nevertheless, fell under the censure of a considerable part of the Press, and—what to him was of greater consequence—incurred the severe displeasure of his superiors. The state of affairs is sufficiently evidenced by the following dispatch sent by Gen. HALLECK (then Commander of the Department of the West) to Mr. STANTON, (then Secretary of War) a few days after Donelson:

"I have had no communication with Gen. GRANT for more than a week. He left his command without my authority, and went to Nashville. His army seems to be as much demoralized by the victory at Fort Donelson as was that of the Potomac by the defeat of Bull Run. I can get no returns, no reports, no information of any kind, from him. Satisfied of his victory, he sits down and enjoys it, without any regard to the future. I am worn out, and tired by this neglect and inefficiency. C. F. SMITH is almost the only officer equal to the emergency."

The day following the date of this dispatch, HALLECK (having, probably, meantime received authority from Washington,) telegraphed to GRANT: "You will place Major-Gen. C. F. SMITH in command of the expedition, and remain yourself at Fort Henry."

The expedition to which reference is made in the latter dispatch was the movement which resulted in the giant struggle at Pittsburg Landing—the battle of Shiloh. It was designed that SMITH should permanently supersede GRANT as commander of the Army of the Tennessee; but circumstances brought it around that the latter was again sent into the field, and, as SMITH became sick and afterward died, it fell on that GRANT commanded at Pittsburg Landing. We see apparently that Shiloh was one of the decisive actions of the war, and the commander has received the fitting meed of honor therefor; but at the time, most inaccurate accounts of the battle were circulated, and GRANT again fell under disgrace. The following extract from his official volume of Col. RAWLINS correctly pictures the disagreeable and humiliating position to which the General was now reduced:

"Rumors were industriously spread that GRANT was drunk during the battle, &c. The country believed many of these rumors, and in the West especially the outcry was loud. The newspapers took up the theme; Congressmen and politicians beset the President to relieve GRANT entirely from command. Even GRANT's military superior seemed affected by the clamor. Gen. HALLECK, removing his headquarters to the field, superseded GRANT, who was left second in command. It is true, he was quite ignored in all the operations. In the army, his situation was universally regarded as one of disgrace."

Such was the position of Gen. GRANT up to July of that year, (1862,) at which time HALLECK was assigned to the control of all the armies, with his headquarters at Washington. It would seem as though the leadership of the Army of the Tennessee might then have naturally reposed to its former head. But first of all, Gen. HALLECK offered the position to a Quartermaster named ROBERT ALLEN; nor was it till that person had declined the honor of commanding, that it came again into the hand of him who, though he had won Donelson and Shiloh, had not succeeded in winning the confidence of his military superiors.

Tracing now briefly forward, we follow to the operations that filled up the Autumn of 1862 and the early months of 1863—to those measures tendered against Vicksburg, the dearly interesting story of which has so often been told. It is well known that these attempts were each in succession, lamentable failures. Well, some politicians, prominent and military superiors grumbled and clamored. MCCLERNAND's vain and malicious partisan General, declared he was "tired of furnishing laurels for the Army of the Tennessee," and was assigned to an independent command. The old rumor about GRANT's habitual drunkenness was revived. He was pronounced utterly destitute of genius or energy. Even LINCOLN's favorite halt did not stand secure. "I wish I could bring him a little vinegar." When finally he won the greatest of the batteries and turned northward to invest Vicksburg from the rear, the ridiculous exhortation called upon congratulation were misapprehended. The Chief Magistrate, with his quaint illustration, said that "he had thought he had taken a medicine." It may be imagined how the dissatisfaction was not decreased by the news that followed the early period of the siege. It was blamed for inactivity, and it was rumored that Jeff Davis would fall on the rear and destroy him. There was considerable fear for safety among the people. Then came tidings of the battle, which the rear of Vicksburg, which the city, and finally the capitulation of Vicksburg, which has put GRANT into Washington (which has not gone to Rome—yet, what was and is Gen. Halleck doing in Fort Halleck?) demanding for him to be put into the vacancy of a new Lieut.-Gen., Grant and to supersede Halleck.

I have said that this fact has never hitherto been and is not confined to a limited circle, but is publicly known. It is not only in some of the Lives of Gen. GRANT—not even in that of RAWLINS, who has access to every scrap of known documentary evidence—that there exists not a written word, or the secret among the archives of the War Department, of the fact of the offer of the command of the Army of the Tennessee to Gen. GRANT.

It certainly is a fact well worth exposition that the offer of the overall command of the armies, which, within a short hour hence, will be in fact or in effect tender, will never be known to Gen. Grant himself.

The officer who was directed to supersede GRANT in the command of the army investing Vicksburg was, as I have already said, Gen. BANKS. The order was an imperative one. Nevertheless, Gen. BANKS did not obey the letter. He replied expostulating against it.

The considerations on which that officer based his expostulation will appear when this remarkable correspondence sees the light. This much, however, may be said. He pointed out that for him to abandon his position at Fort Hudson would be to give up the key of the Mississippi, imperiling not only the tenure of New-Orleans, but jeopardizing our possession of any point of vantage on that vital waterway.

To this expostulation came from Washington a renewed command to supersede GRANT, and when the impolicy of the step was again pointed out by BANKS, he was sharply admonished for disobedience of orders.

Well, this remarkable correspondence went on and on, and late in July it is historically prominent, when suddenly Vicksburg fell, and the military gentlemen and politicians who at Washington had been plotting GRANT's destruction, were hasten to turn their pipes in peans and to Triumphal in the laurel-crowned commander. Every scrap of paper bearing on the subject was spirited away from the archives in the Departments, while BANKS, putting the writings safely by, kept his own counsel. Now it came about that a short time since the General-in-Chief got wind of this secret, and, obtaining copies of the correspondence, burst for the first time, this notable episode in his career, is not for me here to tell. Let us rather follow out one or two of the lines of suggestion that radiate from this pregnant fact.

And, first, one cannot but note the absolute manner in which the destiny of the captain who brought the war to a close depended, in its hundred crisis, on the will and decision of one man. The examples are frequent of generals who were made or marred by what men call chance or fortune. But this is not a case of this nature; it is a thing apart and unique.

For, nothing is more map fact than that, had Gen. BANKS carried out his instructions and relieved Gen. GRANT at Vicksburg, GRANT's historic career would have been abruptly and forever closed. Vicksburg was the knife-balance of his fate. Triumphant there, the prestige of his victory gave him command of larger means and ampler opportunities, and so on, along the entire chain of interdependent events, up to this hour.

But, suppose he had been stripped of his command a month before the fall of the stronghold on the Mississippi? Would not his have been then a cervine struggle—a failure? Recall to mind what has already been set forth: that he had fallen under the displeasure of the military chiefs who ruled at Washington, which had, before, removed him from command, to which, indeed, he seemed to relapse merely by hazard—chiefs who had preferred before him to one esteemed a second-rate politician, in another an obscure Quartermaster. That would have been but a haggard prologue, which, including Belmont and Shiloh, and Haines' Bluff, stopped short, and rose not to the awaiting themes of Vicksburg, and Chattanooga, and Five Forks. It suggests the mind to attempt to follow out the lines of conjecture that suggest themselves in the event that BANKS had offered his orders and displeased GRANT; but the inference would certainly seem to be fair enough that the opportunity for whatever the President deed has grown to, as well in the military as in the political way, he owes directly to that officer, who, being ordered to supersede him declined to supersede him. It is warrantable to assume that Vicksburg would equally have fallen, without relapse, at a time when might have been in command; for the surrender was the result of the blockade, and was an inevitable result. But, had Vicksburg capitulated to BANKS, not GRANT, what a different history of the war would there have been to tell. Let us rather follow out one or two of the lines of suggestion that radiate from this pregnant fact.

It will probably be hardly practicable to return from some inquiry both as to the reason of Gen. BANKS' refusal of the command, and as to his motive for keeping so long secret a fact so important both to the General-in-Chief and to himself. It would certainly not have been well that the revelation of this passage in the history of our military administration had been made during either of the past two political campaigns. But the full bearings of the subject will only be appreciated when the correspondence itself comes to be given to the world; and then there will be no possible to appreciate what influence this revelation exerted much may here on the fortunes of those whom the correspondence concerns. As a single instance one can hardly help noting that it was not long after GRANT's becoming for the first time aware of the existence of such a correspondence that Mr. WASHBURNE withdrew his mission of many from public life.

Meantime the universal bloodshedders of the President-elect will need to revise their histories in the light of a fact which, as vital in GRANT's career as the fact that he was born, SIBYL.

Mr. Wells' Report in the House—The Copper Tariff Bill—Sectional Banks—The New-York Election Frauds.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Jan. 19, 1869.

The effect of the Congressional Communication WELLS was opened in the House to-day. Mr. KELSEY from the Joint Committee on Printing, reported a resolution for the printing of twenty thousand copies of his report. Mr. KELSEY immediately claimed the floor, and proceeded to extol the report in his accustomed style of vigor and vivacity. He admitted, he confess, but denied its conclusions, especially those which assert that the present gold system is injurious to the industrial interests and the public treasury. He then endeavored to show that Mr. WELLS was wrong and that he was rightly made of the journals in the Member of German birth in his own way. The increased wages of labor, and the increase of deposits in savings banks, the return of the other prosperous state of labor. Mr. KELSEY in the short advocacy of this side of the question, and he always gets his arguments warm, but he made very little impression upon the House. Mr. GARFIELD followed briefly and also in defense of the report, stating, perhaps, the fact that there were those who opposed it because he said what nothing every one to draw their own conclusions, without comparing views of the Commissioner. He then called some facts to reflection of Mr. KELSEY's position, showing that while the wages of labor were higher than in 1860, the cost of living was proportionately still higher, and Mr. WELLS made such conclusions from which, therefore, both sorrow. Mr. KELSEY's point on the increase of deposits in savings banks is met by the fact that the number of depositors in 1860 were about nineteen million dollars in gold. There are now thirty-one million dollars in currency, and fifty per head for the average gold government, and the difference is but four millions. This increase is more than adequately accounted for by the simple fact that seven per cent. interest, free of tax, has attracted a large class of people, not poor, but more or less well to do, who seek especially a safe as well as a profitable investment. Mr. SUMNER and Mr. BUTLER both favored the resolution to print, the former saying that Mr. WELLS had furnished a perfect magazine of facts on the subject treated. Mr. MCCULLOUGH reiterated his speech of last session. He reluctantly admitted that there were some facts in it, but he would not vote for printing more than the usual number. Mr. ELA said the usual number in this case was twenty thousand, and the demand for the report was so great that nothing less would supply it. The House then ratificated the report by agreeing to the proposition of the Committee without a division. The Senate edition is ten thousand, which makes thirty thousand ordered by Congress, and it is proper to say that no document yet issued is sought for with greater eagerness.

THE COPPER TARIFF BILL.

The Copper Tariff bill passed the Senate to-day by the very decided majority of thirty-eight to eleven. Several amendments were made to the bill as it passed the House, the principal one being a duty of forty-five per cent. ad valorem on all manufactures of copper. An amendment excepting from the increased duty all copper and copper ore now on shipboard for transportation to the United States at this date was also agreed to. Another amendment providing that the act shall not take effect until the 1st of April next was lost. The bill goes to the House to-morrow, and it will probably pass in its present form.

NATIONAL BANKS.

The Finance Committee of the Senate met to-day and agreed to some further amendments to the National Bank law, prohibiting the use of certified checks; allowing banking on a specie basis, with a deposit of bonds on a basis of sixty-five per cent., and requiring the bank statement to be made up at such arbitrary and uncertain dates as it may be called for, rather than at fixed periods.

The Banking and Currency Committee of the House to-day unanimously instructed their Chairman to prepare an amendment to the National Currency act prohibiting National Banks from certifying any check, unless the maker thereof has on hand at the time the funds to meet it.

THE NEW-YORK ELECTION FRAUDS.

Mr. DUDLEY, of the Congress Committee, appointed to investigate the election frauds in New-York, returned here last night. Witnesses were examined at four points in the State, viz., Poughkeepsie, Kingston, Troy, and Rochester. The result of the inquiry goes to show that, previous to the late election, persons were naturalized at those points by the County Clerk, solely without the intervention of a Court of competent jurisdiction, as provided by law, and that such has been the practice in the interior of the State for years. The full Committee will probably meet to-morrow, when a report will be agreed on.

THE EXECUTIVE SESSION.

There was a brief Executive session to-day, during which the nominations that have accumulated for the past week were referred, together with the several treaties submitted by the President, which were ordered printed for the confidential use of the Senate. No action was had upon Mr. SATTERLEE, and only one confirmation was made, that of Postmaster at Portland, Oregon, in place of the former incumbent, convicted and in prison for malfeasance in office.

THE DENVER PACIFIC RAILROAD.

The House to-day reached on the Speaker's table the bill for the extension of the Union Pacific Railroad, Eastern Division, from its present terminus to Denver, Colorado. The bill asks that the present subsidy be extended to Cheyenne Wells, fifty-four miles beyond the end of the road, the point of divergence of the thirty-third parallel route from thence to Denver, 130 miles. The Company proposes to build the road with the aid of the bond and grant. This will take 1,840,000 additional bonds. Mr. WASHBURNE got the floor, and made a powerful speech, full of facts and figures, against the bill. He was listened to with much attention, and his speech evidently made a serious impression. The bill comes up again to-morrow after the morning hour, and, as it has some strong advocates in the House, the debate will be an able one. The bill passed the Senate at the last session, and its chances in this House are now, apparently, about even.

THE ASSASSINATION CONSPIRATORS.

The President to-day gave some time to the consideration of the application for the pardon of Dr. Mudd, one of the Lincoln conspirators. The friends of the prisoner are pressing the matter very earnestly, and hope by the presentation of some new documents on the subject to throw additional light on the matter, which shall aid the President in arriving at a favorable conclusion.

VIRGINIA RECONSTRUCTION.

The Senate Judiciary Committee have not yet arrived at any decision in reference to the admission of Virginia. A committee of the Opposition Party in the State, or those in favor of the Underwood Constitution, are also here, representing their side of the case. Both parties have held frequent conferences, and are endeavoring to agree on some plan which will be mutually satisfactory. It is stated that the Virginia Conservatives are unwilling to have the new constitution substituted to the constitutions of any of the old non-slaveholding States, one of the objectionable provisions being that it relegates to the education fund. The Judiciary Committee intend to hear both sides of the question, and Gov. WELLS will appear before them to-morrow in opposition to the scheme proposed by the Conservative Party.

REDUCTION OF THE ARMY.

The question of the reduction of the Regular Army will be brought before Congress at this session. But it is more than probable that no measure of this character will be passed, owing to the shortness of the session, and the length of debate which, when introduced, it will certainly call forth. The proposition of the House Military Committee to reinstate prominent army officers to give their opinions as to the best method of effecting a reduction does not meet with much favor among Senators. They say that it will only lead to a waste of time and be productive of no very substantial results. Senator WILMOT is preparing a bill which looks to a decrease of the standing army almost as low as it was at the outbreak of the late civil war, and which, if passed, will lessen the annual military expenditures by several millions.

THE REVENUE-REFORM ACT.

The repeal of the Internal-Revenue Office not continuing to be a leading topic of conversation among Members, that there appears to be a great diversity of opinion as their actual status there. The friends of Mr. WILSON say that the strongest arguments on the side of its retention are of a commercial character, and

Before Judge Blatchford.

THE BLAISDELL-EKEL WHISKY CASE.

The United States vs. Alonzo Blaisdell, John J. Eckel and John McLaren.—At the opening of the Court this morning the examination of Isaac S. Schuyler was resumed. He testified that when he hired the men at the distillery he hired them under the orders of Blaisdell and Eckel.

Cross-examined.—He identified his signature to an affidavit dated Dec. 28, 1867, part of which, he said, he had subscribed to. This affidavit was read by Mr. McCarthy. In it Schuyler spoke of the distillery as his, and he deposed that he had seen Blaisdell connect the pipe into the rectifying-house, and denied all the material allegations against the establishment. A claim of ownership to the distillery by the witness, sworn to Dec. 28, 1867, was read. The witness said he made the claim at the request of Blaisdell and Eckel; he knew Stephen Utley, Assistant Assessor; he did not think the application for a license was made at Utley's office, but at Franklin's; he wrote the affidavit himself, at the dictation of either Blaisdell or Utley.

To Mr. Phelps.—The witness testified that he made the affidavit at Ditmehoeffer's office; he was sent for, to come there, by Blaisdell and Eckel; the employes of the distillery were marshaled up and sworn in a body; he did not think he read the affidavit before he signed it; he did not recollect anything mumbled over in a great hurry; with regard to whisky being drawn with a syphon or with a hose, through the second story window, he had testified that it could not be done; the men did not hold up their hands; the paper was read to them in an undertone; they turned to and away they went.

To Mr. McCarthy.—The affidavit was read over so quick that he could not understand it; he thought the whole of it was not read to him; he did not hear the Commissioner of Deeds read the usual formula, "You solemnly swear," &c.; he was indicted in connection with Blaisdell and Eckel; in regard to his indictment, he pleaded "not guilty;" a nolle prosequi was entered in his case; this had nothing to do with his giving testimony in this case.

To Mr. Phelps.—Blaisdell and Eckel wanted him to sign a statement or affidavit to aid them in getting some whisky that had been seized; they told him it was a mere matter of form.

To Mr. McCarthy.—The witness repeated more in detail the testimony first given; he had never promised, if the indictment against him was quashed, that he would give testimony against Blaisdell and Eckel; he did not want to give evidence against them.

Wm. H. Barrett, recalled.—When the distillery and rectifying-house were seized he searched for a rectifier's tons, but could not find any.

James F. Dusendorf, sworn: The distillery and the rectifying-house were about fifty feet apart; they were built by or for Blaisdell, Eckel and Tisdale; they owned them; prior to their erection he was in the habit of drinking with Blaisdell; they told him in this business about a year; the general understanding between Blaisdell and him, was that he was to take charge of the rectifying-house for Blaisdell, Eckel and Tisdale; the men employed there were sent to him as he supposed by Blaisdell; he agreed with Blaisdell to take charge of the rectifying-house for $50 a month; Dr. Blaisdell requested him to make application for a license; he made the application; he paid nothing for the license; the receipt was brought to him by Blaisdell; in April and May, 1868, he spirits, that he was aware of, were received in the rectifying-house other than what was received from the distillery; the witness corroborated the previous testimony with regard to the pipe and hose by which spirits were conveyed from the distillery to the rectifying-house; in the Fall Eckel mostly took charge of receiving the proceeds from the sale of whisky; the witness did not receive any; the distillery was on a higher elevation than the rectifying-house

THE FINAL DISPOSAL OF THIS QUESTION STILL RESTS WITH EVERY INDIVIDUAL, AND RAISES POSSIBLY THE HONOR AND ADVANTAGE OF EVERY DOLLAR OF OUR DEBT WITH PRIOR RESUMPTION. GOOD FAITH.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY offers a limited amount of its First Mortgage Bonds at par. Nine hundred and fifty miles of the line west from Omaha are now completed, and the whole grand line to the Pacific will be open for business in the Summer of 1869.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own First Mortgage Bonds to the same amount as the Government Bonds, AND NO MORE. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments, and give over eight per cent on the investment. Such a mortgage upon what, for a long time, will be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States, takes the highest rank as a safe security.

The price for the present is 75c, and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency. Subscriptions will be received in New-York at the Company's office, No. 20 Nassau-street, and by JOHN J. CISCO & SON, Bankers, No. 59 Wall-street, and by the Company's authorized agents throughout the United States. Pamphlets, with full particulars, on application.

Bonds sent free, but parties subscribing through local agents will look to them for their safe delivery.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

The protocol agreed upon by the Peace Conference declares that to encourage insurrections within or privateering or military expeditions against the territory of a friendly Power is a violation of international law. This is to be signed by the Great Powers participating in the Conference, after which it is to be presented to Greece. If she signs, the ultimatum of the Sublime Porte will be withdrawn. If she declines, the Powers signing will remain neutral in any conflict that may arise in consequence.

Full returns from the recent elections in Spain for a constitutional Cortes have been received at Madrid. But few Republican members have been returned, leaving the Monarchists largely in the majority.

The London newspapers of yesterday commented at length on the treaty recently signed for the settlement of the Alabama claims, and also upon the speech of the Emperor NAPOLEON at the meeting of the Corps Legislatif. The Times regrets that the Government which the Emperor has created cannot survive him.

CONGRESS.

Several memorials were presented to the Senate yesterday and referred to committees. The Committee on Foreign Relations was discharged from the further consideration of certain resolutions and messages relative to affairs in Japan. Mr. BUCKALEW stated, in reference to the resolution about the coolie trade, that a bill bearing upon the subject had passed the Senate and was now pending in the House. A resolution was adopted calling upon the President for information relative to the fisheries acquired by the purchase of Alaska. The Senate resumed the discussion of the bill to regulate the tariff on copper. Several amendments were proposed and acted upon, after which the bill was passed, there being but eleven votes in the negative. The Senate then went into Executive Session, and soon afterward adjourned.

In the House a resolution to print 200,000 copies of the report of Mr. WELLS, Special Revenue Commissioner, provoked considerable debate, Mr. KELLEY opposing it in a speech, during which he denounced the report as false and damaging to the country. Mr. GARFIELD defended the report, as did also Mr. JENCKES, BUTLER and others. The resolution was adopted. The bill to preserve the purity of elections in the territories was debated and finally passed—yeas 61, nays 54. The Senate substituted for the House bill regulating judicial proceedings in certain cases was passed. It provides for the transfer from State to Federal Courts of all suits brought against common carriers for property destroyed or branded in consequence of the late rebellion. The Senate amendments to the House bill relative to taking evidence in contested election cases were non-concurred in, and a Committee of Conference asked for. A lengthy debate followed upon the bill granting lands and the right of way to the Denver Pacific Railway, Mr. WAKEMBURG, in his speech in opposition to it, characterized it as the pickiest railroad bill of the session, sent in, to ascertain the determination of the House in regard to the granting of railroad subsidies and land grants. Speeches were made in favor of the bill, but, without disposing of it, the House adjourned.

GENERAL.

A Washington special says that intelligence has reached that city from an authentic source that the Spanish Government is favorably inclined to transfer the Island of Cuba to the United States, and that the terms suggested are such as would probably meet with favor by our Government, and such as our people as approve of the purchase or annexation of Cuba. It is also stated that the insurgents are confident of shortly gaining entire possession of Cuba, and claim to have now secured possession of more than one-half of the island. They assert that their strength and status are such as to warrant their recognition by this Government as belligerents.

Rev. P. S. HARRIS, a Catholic priest at Holyoke, Mass., was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs by a Trial Justice on that town, on Monday, for an assault upon one of his parishioners, in the vestry of this church, on Sunday week. The priest appealed.

A very destructive fire occurred at Seneca Falls on Saturday night. The Kirkham Block, one of the largest and most substantial structures in that village, was entirely consumed, causing a loss of about $60,000. There was two insurance upon it.

The Commissioner of Patents thinks, on this showing, that DEMERSE & O'TOOLE's unpaid bill ought not to be settled; the Secretary of the Interior thinks, on the other hand, it ought to be paid, because "these were the contract prices." Very true; but who made the contracts, and why did he make them so? That is something for the Department of the Interior to explain to the public. For, as this is but a single specimen of the stationery contracts made for one office—the Patent Office—the extent of this sort of business can be imagined. The reader can also reckon, by comparing some of DEMERSE & O'TOOLE's prices with the current Washington prices, the wholesale "leakage" in this direction. So far as present official disclosures go, it is clear that there is "nobody to blame."

The Franking Privilege.

We hope Congress will do something,—no matter how little,—toward reforming the very gross abuses that have grown up about the franking privilege. We do not expect very much,—for the privilege itself is too great a convenience to be readily discarded, and its abuses are still more convenient and profitable; but in the present condition of the postal service, with a deficit this year of about six millions of dollars, we certainly have a right to expect something.

The use of the fac simile stamp might, at all events, be forbidden. It certainly is more convenient for a member of Congress to allow his clerk to stamp his name on an envelope than it is to write it himself; and some members, perhaps, will refuse to give up the privilege of doing so. But it is getting to be an almost universal custom for members to lend their fac simile stamps to political clubs, benevolent associations, newspaper publishers, quack medicine venders, or whoever applies for their use. Members are confessing,—not very penitentially it must be owned, but rather by way of showing how generous they are,—that they have been in the habit of doing so, without a doubt as to its propriety or a thought as to the extent of the damage they were inflicting on the public revenue.

There certainly can be no adequate reason for maintaining so flagrant and so costly a swindle as this. Mr. FARNSWORTH has introduced a bill to forbid it;—we hope he may be able to push it through. We can scarcely believe a single member will venture to go on the record as voting against it.

The privilege of franking was given to members, not as a personal perquisite, but as a means of facilitating the performance of their public duties by promoting prompt and inexpensive communication with their constituents on matters of public importance. This object has been lost sight of long ago,—and members feel at liberty not only to frank their own letters of every kind, but all the letters of everybody else who may apply to be thus accommodated. Even this practice might be tolerated, if kept within reasonable bounds, as it would be by requiring the name to be written by the member himself, instead of being stamped. But when the business of cheating the Government comes to be done by machinery, there is literally no end to the amount of which it may be defrauded.

We hope Mr. FARNSWORTH will insist on bringing his bill to the attention and action of the House.

Bismarck and Beust.

Europe is slowly drifting back into the days of the Maurins and the Richelieus. The true rulers of Prussia and Austria are not their Sovereigns, but the two Ministers. Both act under the same powerful stimulant—ambition;—both represent in a rare degree the peculiar type of their nation. Hence their violent antagonism. BISMARCK, the haughty, arrogant Junker, claims for his own Prussia, which he has raised to power even more than in area, the supremacy in Central Europe, and proudly points to Prussian schools, Prussian manufactures, and Prussian needle-guns, as the three great bulwarks of her greatness. BEUST, the cosmopolite, whose eminent ability has been shown in cementing the varied nationalities of Austria into a solid, permanent power, bravely defies his powerful, boastful antagonist. He cannot cope with him; for Austrian finances are beyond recovery, and the process of melting the metals of Austrian Provinces into one, even in the crucible of adversity, is a task for which his lifetime cannot suffice. He has, however, had the triumph to make himself so formidable to Prussia that BISMARCK threatens with his usual overbearing violence, dire consequences if he be not removed.

Both Ministers are sadly hampered in their lofty plans and able measures by the weakness of their masters. BISMARCK, the true type of the Northern German, with his cold, clear understanding and haughty disregard of the welfare of others, finds himself constantly impeded by King WILLIAM's piety and good nature. The fine old monarch would like to be great on earth and yet to stand well in heaven, and to rule over Germany without hurting the feelings of deposed Sovereigns and subjugated republicans. He groans perpetually over the painful duty, imposed upon him from on high, to annex neighboring kingdoms and to conscript unwilling subjects. BISMARCK smiles at his scruples, and frets; hence his recent alliance with the Liberals, his change from the party of physical power, the Junkerthum and the army, to the party of intellectual strength, the Liberals and the people.

BEUST's difficulty is greater yet, for his master, the Emperor, is not only weak, but ruled by his clever wife. The intangible power behind the throne is far more subtle and dangerous to him than all the difficulties raised by the Sovereign himself could ever be. Then he is a foreigner, and although the Empire for which he labors so hard and so successfully, wears itself a coat of many colors, each race sees in him but the outsider. He works, moreover, not for a native land with the love and zeal man draws like Antæus from the soil, but from ambition for his house, dear of a great monarchy. And yet he has done wonders. For it is he who has liberalized the Emperor's mind to the point of actual resistance to the Pope, who has pacified Hungary and made her the new pivot on which the Empire is to rest in its future policy, and who has saved the finances from utter ruin. In spite of all this, he will fail. The North is too strong for the South, everywhere. The cold, heartless policy of BISMARCK, backed by a million of intelligent and patriotic citizens, who are at the same time thoroughbred soldiers, must be victorious in the end. The Prussians feel that the future is theirs, and poor Austria struggles in vain, betrayed in as she is between the growing energies of the young Empire of Prussia, and the increasing pressure of Panslavism in the East.

The British Revenue Returns.

The official abstract of the gross produce of the revenue of Great Britain for the year 1867 has been published, and throws considerable light on the general financial condition of the Kingdom, on the administrative capacity of the late Government, and on the difficulties which Mr. GLADSTONE, pledged as he is to retrenchment in every department of the Government, will have to encounter. The great features of the return are that firstly, the expenditure of Great Britain for the financial year ending in March next will not be covered by the sum of £72,000,000; secondly, that the ordinary revenue has displayed during the last twelvemonth none of that "elasticity" upon which successive Chancellors of the Exchequer have so constantly and so successfully relied to help them out of their difficulties; and, thirdly, that the annual expenditure of the Kingdom has increased during the past thirty years at a rate which, if continued for a further period of the same duration, would raise it to close on £100,000,000.

These are very grave facts, and must inspire English statesmen with no small amount of anxiety. The total expenditure for the year exhibits an increase on that for 1867 of something more than £3,000,000, this being, of course, due to the expenses of the Abyssinian war—which, by the way, from first to last, and including the share borne by the Indian Government, will not cost the two countries much under £7,000,000. More than the amount of this increase, however, is covered by the increased proceeds of the income tax, derived from the additional two pence in the pound imposed by Mr. DISRAELI, specially to meet Abyssinian expenses. But while the income tax, in which every additional penny may be relied upon to produce the estimated amount, has fulfilled anticipation, the normal and permanent sources of revenue have failed to do so, and show a state of things, which must more than ever impress upon English financiers the necessity of checking the constant tendency to augmentation of expenditure, of which budget after budget, for many years, has given evidence. Excise, for example, notwithstanding a year of fair agricultural prosperity, and the greatly increased consumption of excisable fluids, which accompanies the long and exciting political canvass on the occasion of a general election, shows but a very slight increase, hardly more than balancing the decrease in Customs, which is attributable to the decline in that branch of revenue during the last quarter of the year. Even the Post Office, the returns from which have hitherto invariably shown an increase, returns £70,000 less than in 1867, and this in spite of the enormous number of circulars which must have been forwarded by mail during the political campaign. True, the sum is a small one in comparison with the gross product of the postal revenue, which is close upon £5,000,000, but it still suggests the idea that a limit may be reached, which seems never to have occurred to English financiers. Stamps show a decrease in the year of nearly £500,000, and were it not for the increase under the head of "Miscellaneous," there would have been a considerable deficit, instead of the existing small surplus.

It is clear, therefore, that financial questions will not form the least of Mr. GLADSTONE's difficulties during the approaching session, and it is certain that before long they will be forced upon the consideration of Parliament in the most urgent form. The continual increase in military and naval expenditure, without even, according to the general complaint, any corresponding increase in efficiency, cannot be long tolerated now that England is daily receding further from her former position as one of the chief arbitrators in European affairs, and that the views of the advanced Liberals with regard to the Colonies are rapidly gaining ground in every quarter. In case of any further accession of distress to that which even now presses upon the working classes throughout the Kingdom, Mr. BRIGHT's cry of "a free breakfast table" may yet be echoed widely enough to make it the cry of the day, and in a form which will render it likely to obtain more consideration than has seemed possible as yet. It was easy to reconcile people to an increasing expenditure as long as their revenue increased in like proportion, but with a stationary revenue and the consequent necessity of adding fresh burdens to meet a growing expenditure, a good many more taxpayers will want to "know the reason why," than have hitherto troubled themselves about such matters.

MINOR TOPICS.

Senators of the United States were elected yesterday by the Legislatures of eight States. New-York elected Ex-Gov. FENTON, after a close contest with Senator MORGAN. Massachusetts, for the fourth term, elected CHARLES SUMNER, there being no contest, and nearly the entire vote going for Mr. SUMNER. Maine elected HANNIBAL HAMLIN, after an elaborate contest with Senator HOWARD, the present member. Missouri elected CARL SCHURZ, after a close and bitter struggle, in which the German Republican candidate at last supplanted Senator HENDERSON. Indiana elected Mr. CULBERTSON (Republican) in place of the present Democratic Senator, Mr. HENDRICKS,—the vote between the two candidates being very close, and there also being a small Republican bolt. Pennsylvania elected JOHN SCOTT (Republican, but not heretofore prominent in politics,) in place of the present Democratic Senator, Mr. BUCKALEW. Delaware elected two Senators, Messrs. BAYARD and BAYARD, (father and son,) the former to fill the unexpired term of Senator BRIGHT, deceased, and the latter to be the successor of his father after the 4th of March, for six years. Michigan, for the third term, elected ZACHARIAH CHANDLER, who has served in the Senate since the retirement of LEWIS CASS. Minnesota elected for the second term ALEXANDER RAMSEY, who was nominated, after a severe struggle, by one majority over MONROE S. WILKINSON.

The bill which has been introduced to Congress by Mr. POLAND, permitting persons accused of crime to give testimony in their own cases before Federal Courts, embodies a legal principle which has lately been established in several of the New-England States, and which has long been advocated by prominent legists in this country and in England. We believe it has worked well, so far as it has been tried, and we are inclined to think it would generally further the ends of law and justice.

Senator HAMLIN must not make any more attempts at speaking French, or introducing French words into his speeches. He makes an awful job of it, which those who do not grieve [illegible] will be sure to laugh at. In the rather exalted speech he delivered in the Senate on Monday, against those newspaper correspondents who charged him with complicity in legislative fraud, there was a passage which the Associated Press kindly suppressed in the Congressional report sent to this City, but which we find thus reported in the Washington papers:

"There are people in that gallery, (pointing to the reporters' gallery,) observing every word to send to press. 'Tis for this life the honest of the American Press, who live by blackmailing. They will do anything want they get their livelihood, (laughter,) or (laughter,) or whatever you call it, (probably meaning dollars.) These people go to the Presidents of these roads and tell them you must give us something or we will attack your bills."

The Iowa Senator will be fortunate if Doolittle-or-Dudley-or-whatever-you-call-it HAMLIN do not stick to him for the rest of his life.

It seems that the movement for raising the pay of the members of the Metropolitan Police was not by any means crushed out. A bill has been introduced in the State Assembly providing that from May next the patrolmen and roundsmen shall receive $1,500 per annum, or an advance of $200, while doormen are to be raised $200. It was the Captains and Sergeants who lately got up an excitement, both among their own members and among the public, for an increase of pay; but it seems to have been agreed that the privates of the force shall first be quietly brought forward. The chance of the officers will doubtless come next.

We are afraid that Gen. GRANT's authority is claimed for rather too many projects, great and small. It is thought to be a mere way to silence any object to say that GRANT is in favor of it; but of course the trick may be tried too often and carried too far. The last effort in this line is made in behalf of a "committee of citizens" of Washington, who aver that Gen. GRANT has said positively that he will not attend the inauguration ball if Congress refuses to let it be held in the Capitol. Now, we don't believe that GRANT ever said anything of the kind. He is not the man to say such things; but he is just the man to snub those who charge him with saying them.

Mr. KELLEY of Pennsylvania was roused to great wrath yesterday by the report of the Special Commissioner of Revenue, Mr. WELLS. In elegant language, KELLEY characterized the report as a "fraud upon humanity and a slander upon the country, abounding in misrepresentation and falsehood," &c., &c. We presume the main object of Mr. KELLEY's bitter assault was to attempt to prevent the appointment of Mr. WELLS as Secretary of the Treasury under Gen. GRANT. There is no doubt that it would be a dangerous appointment for monopolists, speculators, peculators and corruptionists.

Lynch law is becoming more frequent than ever in the Western States. Following closely on the heels of the lynchings in Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, Tennessee and Colorado, we have this morning an account of the hanging of two men by lynch law in Iowa on Saturday night. It is a shocking and disgraceful business thus lynching; but it is not much more disgraceful than the fact that so many of the worst criminals constantly escape the penalties of the law through the rascality or imbecility of those who are employed to administer it.

The Spanish elections show that an overwhelming majority of the people are in favor of a monarchy. We suppose they will next be called upon to vote for the individual whom they may desire as monarch. But the difficulties surrounding that step are very great. In the first place, they will not have any member of the Bourbon family, though there are half a dozen Bourbon candidates, male and female. In the next place, it is hard to find a suitable candidate in the governing dynasties of Italy, Portugal, France or England. In the last place, it would be dangerous to the peace of the country and the principle of monarchy to elevate any Spanish subject to the throne. Under the circumstances, we don't know what advice to give them; but we think they would have done well to make trial of a Republic.

The proprietor of the liquor and refreshment saloon on the southwesterly corner of Broadway and Fulton-street has brought suit against the City for damages on account of the injury to his business by the Loew Bridge. He claims that, by obstructing travel in front of his place and taking away his air and light, it damaged his profits to the extent of $200 per week, or $25,000 since its erection; and furthermore, he has been obliged to sell out at a loss of $10,000; wherefore he prays judgment for the sum of $35,000 against the City. We would not on any account prejudge the case; but we suppose that, if successful, it will be followed by at least half a dozen others. Thus, the Broadway Bridge will be more costly and injurious in its depth than it was during its life; and, thus we shall suffer for the twofold folly of putting it up and taking it down.

The long-continued debate in the Senate on the copper tax came to a conclusion yesterday by the passage of the bill raising the duty on imported copper, after various amendments.

We are happy to see that HORATIO SEYMOUR is working in an honorable and valuable way for the advancement of the prosperity of the country, even though he was not elected President. Beside his labors as Fishery Commissioner of the State of New-York, he has just been elected President of the American Dairyman's Association; and in a speech delivered before the body a few days ago, he put forward some ideas deserving of consideration, especially on the subject of cheese. He argued that:

"Cheese ought to be more generally used for food in this country. The American people have lost the cheese-eating propensities of their forefathers. Cheese is the cheapest of all articles of food that can be used. Compared with meat, there are very important economies connected with it. It requires no fuel to prepare it. It is more nutritious, and we must look upon it as a substantial article of food. It is not a "cheap luxury," it is a cheap necessity. He hoped steps would be taken to present cheese as an article of common food, to the favorable consideration of the poor people of our cities. The attention of our Government should be called to the value of cheese as food for our armies. There is no article so cheap for soldiers' rations, and article so nutritious; no article so easy of transportation."

What has become of the "Duchess County Gold Mines," of which we had such glittering accounts a few weeks ago? We ought to have seen at least a few millions of it in the market by this time. Its influence on the gold premium ought to have been felt before now. Surely it cannot be possible that there never were any Duchess County Gold Mines!

To the workingmen of London, REVERENDY JOHNSON said the other day, "Do not believe that there is any difference in your skulls and those of other people. We in America thought at one time there was a difference—not in the white skulls, but between the black and the white ones. We have changed that opinion now." But the "difference" between "white skulls" and "black skulls" is not a matter of "opinion" that can be changed at any time. It is a matter of fact and of science, as REVERENDY JOHNSON may learn by inquiring of any anatomist or ethnologist.

It is always gratifying to observe NAPOLEON's progress in piety. Whether it be owing to his advance in age, or his growth in infirmity, we do not know, but certain it is that within the past two years, or since the battle of Sadowa, he has paid the compose more frequently to Providence than, during all the previous years of his reign. On New-Year's day, his piety was particularly hot. While, among other others, he received the priests, he told them he was "deeply moved" by their appearance, as he had been "sustained and consoled by their prayers;" and then he told them how he felt the "indispensable necessity of asserting the great principles of Christianity, which teach us virtue, that we may know how to live, and immortality, that we may know how to die." If His Majesty should live a few years more, and grow in devoutness as he has lately done, we may yet expect to see him resign the crown, and take to cloister life, like CHARLES the Fifth.

AMUSEMENTS.

Castle Garden.

A good miscellaneous concert was given here last evening for the benefit of Signora ROSINA LAMARI, a lady who has sung in Italy with distinction, and bears the name of Italy's most energetic patriot. The stage heretofore seems to have been her sphere of action. This she should gravitate to the concert-room may be the result of accident—but it is just as a fortunate one. Miss LAMARI's voice is powerful and tractable, two essential elements in an operatic representation. Their deficiencies are not so perceptible in the noble which skill and good taste are quite as ready victories as mere voice. In the well-known Mad[illegible] and Rondo from "La Sonnambula" Miss LAMARI displayed the routine of an artist; her phrasing was clear and intelligent, and her execution pure and certain. It was evident that the lady felt the responsibility of appearing before a strange audience. From nervousness she broke the cadenza in a way that was unpleasant. But as the scene proceeded and the public encouraged the efforts of the artist, there was a manifest improvement. It was not, however, until the cavatina from "La Traviata," that Miss LAMARI fully recovered herself. This well-known piece was sung with expression and feeling. It revealed a fair better quality of voice than was perceptible in BELLINI's melody, and was delivered with complete ease. Miss LAMARI has one or two upper notes which are clear and penetrating. Like Mme. PAREPA-ROSA she is very fond of "holding on" to them. The middle register is good, but thin, and the lower one somewhat weak. Art has done much for Miss LAMARI, and as its results are permanent we expect to have many opportunities of speaking favorably of the lady. Her debut was a success.

Mr. BURNAP played two solos on the organ, and no doubt entertains better sentiments toward the instrument. It is trying; the gentleman also played the accompaniments with much favor toward error, and an evident penchant for handsome clusters of false notes. Mr. OTTO SINGER was announced to be at the piano, but did not make his appearance. Mr. W. J. HILL sang a couple of ballads very acceptably, and was rewarded with the critic's delight—an encore. Signor ROMONI was not present, being at the time in Boston with MARIMON. His place was very acceptably filled by Signor FOSSATI, who sang with spirit. Mr. HARRY SANFORDSON was the soloist. He played his fantasia from "Somnambula" with its extraordinary octave passages, and of course gained an immediate and vociferous encore. No one is more liberally rewarded in this way. We do not remember to have heard Mr. SANFORDSON play better than on this occasion. Some of his feats de force were really remarkable. The concert, it will be seen, was an interesting one, and will, we fancy, bear repetition.

Theatrical.

Mr. BROUGHAM's new theatre is announced to open, positively, on the 25th. The opening performance consists of two new pieces from Mr. BROUGHAM's own fertile fancy—a comedy called "Better Late than Never," and an extravaganza modeled after the Parisian New-Year revue, that French equivalent of the English pantomime, which is to be called "The Dramatic Review for 1868." An auction of the choice places for the opening night is to be held this morning at Messrs. LEGGE & MYERS's, Liberty-street. The box-office at the theatre will be opened to-morrow for the sale of seats for any night after the first.

The auction of seats for the opening performance of Mr. BOOTH's theatre is to be held on Monday next, at Irving Hall.

The pantomime of "Robert Macaire" has been substituted for that of "Nicodemus" at the Tycoon during the present week.

Mr. CHARLES FULTON has written a local farce, which is to be produced by the WOMMEN sisters at their theatre on Monday evening next.

Mr. and Mrs. FLORENCE have returned to New-York, after a very flattering season at the Baltimore Theatre.

Matinee To-day.

There will be matinée performances to-day at several popular places of amusement.

At Wood's Museum Miss LYDIA THOMPSON and her associates will appear in "Ixion," which is to be enacted in its entirety, and in the second and third scenes of "Ixion."

At the Olympic "Humpty Dumpty," which will soon reach its four hundredth representation, will be given.

Finally, at the New-York Circus, an entertainment combining feats equestrian, gymnastic and acrobatic, executed by the best of artistes, will be presented before sundown.

The Funeral of the Late Mr. Blake.

The funeral of Mr. HUMPHREY BLAKE, the actor, is to take place to-day, at 11 o'clock, from his late residence, No. 39 Lafayette-place. Mr. BLAKE died in this City on Sunday last of an asthmatic affection, from which he has suffered greatly during two or three years. He was 67 years old at the time of his death. He was a native of England, and in that country won some distinction as a representative of the young heroes of tragedy and comedy. Recently, Mr. BLAKE has played but little in New-York, his last appearance being, we believe, on the occasion of the fête at Jerome's Theatre of a pupil of Miss ADELE DUNN. His last appearance on any stage was in the character of "The Engineer," in "The Flash of Lightning," at Washington City, four weeks ago. From that place he came home—to die, and reconciled to death. Mr. BLAKE's talents may not be missed from the stage, but some of his character performances (Meller Mon, for instance) will be agreeably remembered. Privately, his genial ways gained him many friends. Mr. BLAKE was married three times. His first wife was a Miss SOMERVILLE, by whom he had one child, a poor cripple, who still lives on his father's farm in New-Jersey. His second was a sister of HELEN FAUCIT, the celebrated English tragedienne. The present Mrs. BLAKE was a Miss LEWIS.

Gen. Grant and the Georgia Legislature.

From the Atlanta (Ga.) Intelligencer, Jan. 16.

A telegram from a gentleman in Washington City to three citizens in Georgia, (the proprietor of this journal being of the three,) has been widely circulated, and with the transformation which always attends tales of wonder, has been alluded to by an Augusta contemporary as containing the advice of Gen. GRANT to the Legislature of Georgia. The dispatch recommends the General Assembly to refer the question of the eligibility of negroes to office to the Supreme Court, not to allow any excitement in passing the legislation necessary for the State; and having done all this is needed, to adjourn, adding that if all this be done, the statement, the editor learned that Gen. GRANT thought that such a course would be the best under the circumstances.

The following is the dispatch:

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13, 1868.

To Hon. R. C. Colquitt, Gen. J. B. Gordon and J. L. Wellshe:

In conversation with Gen. GRANT I learn that he thinks it will be best to pass the joint resolution referring the right of the colored citizen to hold office to the Courts, and adjourn.

I have written to you at Atlanta. Whatever legislation is necessary for the State should be done without sentiment. ANDREW HERLSON HITT.

Prize Debates at Yale College.

From the New-Haven Palladium, Jan. 18.

The Lincoln Sophomore prize debate—subject, "Ought the State to enforce the Education of all Children within its Jurisdiction"—took place last evening (Lincoln Hall) and was, as usual, numerously attended. The Committee of Award were Hons. Prof. E. H. Davis, Prof. Joseph M. Hoppin and Gamaliel E. Warner. The speakers were Frank Johnson, of Pine Bluff, Ark.; Alfred E. Mason, Chicago, Ill.; George A. Strong, St. Louis, Mo.; George E. Jewell, New-Haven; Melvin P. Sweet, Vineland, N. J., and John W. Rose, Guilford. All took the affirmative, and, as Mr. Dwight, the debate was long contested. The first prize was awarded to Mr. STRONG and second to Mr. MASON, the third to Mr. SWEET. Mr. STRONG was awarded the first prize in the Thomas Fenelon prize debate last year. Mr. MASON received the second prize in the same contest. Other prizes have been won as follows: Brothers, Sunday (Tuesday) evening; Linonia, Sunday (to-morrow (Wednesday) afternoon, and evening; Sophomore Brothers, Wednesday evening.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Alabama Claims Convention—Opinions of the Press.

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 19—Evening.

The Pall Mall Gazette (Conservative) has an editorial this evening on the Alabama Claims Convention. The writer hopes that the English Parliament will not ratify the treaty concluded by Lord CLARENDON and Mr. JOHNSON, if the question of the recognition of the Southern Confederacy as belligerents is to be reopened.

The Times to-day analyzes the treaty between Great Britain and the United States for the settlement of the Alabama claims, and gives the following outline of its provisions: The Commission is to consist of four members, two to be appointed by England and two by the United States. The Commission will hold its sessions in Washington. Its first business will be to select an umpire. Failing in a choice, each side will appoint an umpire, and when the Commissioners are equally divided in opinion on any case, they shall select by lot one of the two umpires to render a final decision. One of the Sovereigns of Europe is to be selected by the Commission to arbitrate points of international law, including the question of the recognition of the Southern States as belligerents by Great Britain. Each Government is to formulate and advocate the claims of its citizens; no individual claimant will be heard before the Commission. All claims must be presented within six months from the first day of the meeting of the Commission, and all indemnities are to be paid within eighteen months from the same day. One year is allowed for the ratification of the treaty.

The London journals this morning concur in praising the speech of NAPOLEON at the opening of the French Chambers, as a frank and transparent expression of his policy, and as the words of a true Frenchman addressed to Frenchmen. The Times is sorry that the fabric of a State which he has raised is based on personal government, and cannot survive its maker.

The Election Returns—The People Declare for a Monarchy.

MADRID, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

Complete returns have been received of the elections just concluded for members of the Constituent Cortes. The result shows, unmistakably, that an overwhelming majority of the people of the nation are in favor of a Government monarchical in form. The Cities of Reville, Barcelona, Alicante, Saragossa, and some others, however, have been carried by the Republicans, and the strength of that party in the new Cortes will be about 100 members. It can now be stated, with a close approximation to the exact figures, that the Constituent Cortes will be composed of 300 Monarchists, 35 Republicans and 15 Bourbonists.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The Points of International Law Agreed Upon by the Peace Conference.

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

The Independance Belge says the protocol adopted by the Conference of Paris begins with a preamble stating that the representatives of the Powers who signed the Treaty of Paris have met to define certain points of international law more precisely. The document then proceeds to declare that to encourage insurrections within, or privateering and military expeditions against the territories of a friendly State, is a violation of international law. When the protocol has been signed by all the Powers participating in the Conference, it will be offered to Greece for signature. If Greece signs, the Sublime Porte will withdraw its ultimatum; if she refuses, the Great Powers will remain neutral and permit events to take their course.

HAVANA, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

A meeting of leading Liberal Cubans was held yesterday. It was resolved unanimously that Cubans should insist on the autonomy of the Island; that this independence granted by Spain, with all the guarantees necessary to insure its permanency, would solve all the difficulties and evils which afflict the country.

This resolution is regarded as a declaration of the political faith of the Liberal Party. The Prensa, reviewing an article on the subject in the Verdad, a Liberal paper, says if the Cuban Party insist on continuing the fight against Spain, it must be with the object either of throwing the island into the arms of the United States, or of forming a Republic separate from Spain. This renders it necessary for the Spaniards to reduce them to loyalty by force of arms. But should the Spaniards be attacked by foreigners and perhaps compelled by superior force to leave the island, they should leave it in ruins and ashes.

A letter from the American Consul at Puerto Principe, dated the 14th, says news had been received there from Puerto Principe that the rebel forces, 6,000 strong, under Gen. QUESADA, were advancing on that city, which was defended by Col. MAZA, with a garrison of 3,000 men. Ample preparations had been made to receive the insurgents; the city was in a thorough condition of defense.

In view of the intelligence from Bayamo, it was doubtful whether QUESADA would persist in his movement. The Spanish Commander was confident he could repulse any attack by the rebels.

Owing to a personal difficulty between Gen. WM. S. SMITH, the President of the International Ocean Telegraph Company, and Mr. DICKERSON, President of the Florida Railroad, a Judge in Jacksonville, Fla., has issued an injunction against the Cable Company, preventing their laying their land line in the State of Florida. In consequence of this proceeding, the working of the wires was interrupted on Sunday and a portion of Monday. The suspension of communication caused much confusion, and caused no little damage to the companies of Cuba and the United States. It now appears that the injunction has been partially removed.

The Bishop of Havana has sent an ecclesiastic to investigate the case of the parish priest of Trinidad, now in jail on charge of intentions.

The Electoral Vote of Louisiana—The Collectorship.

NEW-ORLEANS, Tuesday, Jan. 18.

Senator CAMERON, Chairman of the Committee on Rules and Order, yesterday introduced a resolution directing that the Presidential electors receiving a majority in the twenty-six parishes declared by his Committee to have had a peaceable and fair election, shall be requested to meet on the 20th inst. and cast the electoral vote of the State for President. The resolution was referred to the Judiciary Committee. The object of it is to have the vote of the State cast for Gen. GRANT.

Col. CASEY, brother-in-law to Gen. GRANT, left for Washington Saturday, and it is said he will be an applicant for the Collectorship of this port under Mr. JOHNSON in case of FULLER's rejection, and so hold upon under Gen. GRANT. FULLER and his friends favor CASEY's appointment. The latter has stated to his friends that Gen. GRANT had promised him the Collectorship before the election if he was elected.

CHICAGO, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

During Saturday night one hundred armed men from Plum Creek, Pottawattamie County, Iowa, broke into the house of a farmer named HAZLEWOOD, and took out two men, Jackson and Spencer, who murdered HAZLEWOOD's family some time since, and hung them to a tree one mile from town.

This morning Senator ALEX. RAMSEY was reelected to the United States Senate from Minnesota by thirty-nine majority.

MADISON, Wis., Tuesday, Jan. 19.

MATT H. CARPENTER was to-night nominated for United States Senator on the sixth ballot.

GEORGIA.

Proceedings of the Legislature—Reconstruction Propositions.

ATLANTA, Ga., Tuesday, Jan. 19.

The Senate and House, to-day, passed a resolution extending the time of the collection of State taxes until March 1. The following resolution was offered in the Senate to-day:

Believing Gen. GRANT to be President of the country, and desiring to cast our humble mite, we, the members of the Assembly of Georgia, feeling that we have the right to speak for the people, resolved that such a course on our part would be a fitting tribute to the world be thrown throughout the State as a harbinger of peace and as the dawning of a brighter day for our common country; therefore,

Resolved, That laring on the alter of the common country all prejudices and bitter feelings engendered by the late war, we pledge ourselves and the people of this State of Georgia to support Gen. GRANT in carrying on the Government in accordance with the Constitution of the United States and laws enacted under it.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to forward a copy of these resolutions to the President elect and to both Houses of Congress.

A member opposed the resolution, and wanted the parties offering the resolution to go home and denounce the outrages and oppression there, and practice what they preach. The resolution was withdrawn.

A resolution was adopted by the House and Senate appointing a committee in relation to the settlement of the claim of Mr. PRENTISS, of Hartford, Conn., for Sharp's rifles contracted for by Gov. BROWN in 1860.

The House Committee appointed to take into consideration that portion of the Governor's message referring to the action of the House as to the eligibility and expulsion of members, report that they are unable to throw any light on the subject; that the Committee on the Constitutional Amendment and the members who voted on and passed the resolution to which the Governor refers; that the identical members who refused to unseat any member under the third section of the Fourteenth Constitutional Amendment and the expelled negroes are here, and constitute a majority of the House; that the negroes are legally eligible to seats on this floor is too plain to admit of serious debate, and the ineligibility of several of the white members here is equally clear. Therefore, the Committee beg to be relieved from further duty. A motion that the Committee of one be discharged, and the whole matter referred to the Committee on the State of the Republic, was passed.

The Women's Rights Conventions at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

The twelfth regular National Convention of Women's Rights commenced its session to-day. There was a large attendance of delegates. Among the most prominent from abroad were Mrs. FRANCIS MINER, Mrs. ANNIE KEENBURY, Mrs. LUCRETIA MOTT, Mrs. CADY STANTON, Mrs. SUSAN B. ANTHONY, SOPHIE POMEROY, PARKER PILLSBURY, R. M. DAVIS and Mrs. Dr. RATHBAWAY. On the stand, besides the persons mentioned above, was Dr. MENARD, the colored member of Congress elected from Louisiana. A colored woman sat in the audience, while Mrs. Dr. MARY WALKER and MYRA HARDEN, dressed in male attire, were quite active in passing back and forth from the audience-room to the stage. About sixty delegates were in attendance.

The Convention was called to order by SAMUEL POMEROY, of Kansas, who delivered an address, speaking in encouraging terms of the bright prospects for a speedy consummation of the principles of women suffrage. LUCRETIA MOTT briefly addressed the Convention, thanking Senator POMEROY for the encouraging words he had spoken and congratulating the females of the country upon the approaching success of the principles which brought them together. Rev. Dr. GRAY led in prayer, saying the time would soon come when woman, who was from the rib of man, should undo her social and civil shackles, and take of those of man. Mr. R. M. DAVIS, of Philadelphia, took exception to the prayer. In it, he said, the gentleman had spoke of woman as of the rib of man, while all history and the bible proved that woman was the original man. Mrs. LUCRETIA MOTT and Mrs. CADY STANTON indorsed the position of Mr. DAVIS, and the female lady said that in that portion of the prayer she raised her hand because she could not admit any such inequality. The Convention organized by the election of the following-named officers:

President—Lucretia Mott. Vice-Presidents—Mrs. Martha Wright, of New-York; Robert Parris, of Philadelphia; J. H. Ela, of New-Hampshire; Mrs. Frances Miner, of Maryland; Mrs. E. C. Stanton, of New-Jersey; Giles B. Stebbins, of Michigan; J. B. Wolf, of Colorado; Jane B. Archbold, of Kansas; Annie Gardiner, of Virginia. Secretaries—Prof. T. E. Wilson, of Washington; Annie Denton Crider and George F. Reidlman. Treasurer—J. H. Grace. A series of resolutions were offered, declaratory of public, and concluding with a condemnation of "a white man's government," because, in proportion as you increase the number of tyrants in the union raise the condition of the disenfranchised is made more hopeless and degradedly. The resolutions were opposed for discussion.

The Missouri Legislature.

ST. LOUIS, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

In the Legislature yesterday two concurrent resolutions were introduced, instructing our Senators and requesting our Representatives in Congress to vote for the repeal of the Tenure-of-Office act; also a concurrent resolution, instructing Senators and requesting Representatives to vote for an amendment to the Constitution by which naturalized citizens can become eligible to the office of President.

Gen. Burnside Declines a Renomination as Governor of Rhode Island.

Gov. BURNSIDE, of Rhode Island, has written the following letter, declining to be considered, under any circumstances, a candidate for reelection to the office which he has filled for three successive years:

STATE OF RHODE ISLAND,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
PROVIDENCE, Jan. 13, 1869.

Gen. Wm. H. Reynolds, Chairman Republican State Central Committee.

MY DEAR SIR: The people of our State are beginning to think and talk of the "Spring election." Some of them have asked me if I would be willing to stand for the office of Governor again, and I hope it will not be considered improper for me to say, publicly, what I have said to those friends, that under no circumstances can I consent to have my name used in the Convention. I do not know that I should have a single vote in the Convention; but some of my friends might feel inclined to use my name in the primary meetings for the election of delegates, and I therefore take this method of keeping entirely out of the canvass. This resolution has not been formed from any indisposition to serve the State, nor from any lack of appreciation of the high honors conferred upon me by her citizens; but, feeling sure I can preside over her affairs for three successive gubernatorial terms, it is the result of a long-felt desire to withdraw from public life. The great kindness, confidence and indulgence shown to me by the people of Rhode Island during and since the war, will be cherished by me with the greatest pride and gratitude.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
A. E. BURNSIDE.

The Norwich and Worcester Railroad.

The Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin, referring to the reported leasing of the Norwich and Worcester Railroad by the Boston, Hartford and Erie Company, says:

"A proposition for a lease has been submitted, but, before it becomes a contract, it has to be laid upon the stockholders at a special meeting, called for that purpose. If the stockholders ratify it, and if the Legislatures of Massachusetts and Connecticut consent to it, then any lease of the road which the Directors may serve upon will become a fact accomplished. Up to this time, however, whatever personal may have been made, not a stockholder, the corporators may have called upon, so contract is completed. Negotiations have been entered into, however, for a running connection between the Norwich and Worcester and the Hartford and Erie roads. These arrangements complete the running of steamboat trains over the two roads, and an amicable arrangement with the Boston and Albany Road for the mutual accommodation of their freight and passenger business."

AFFAIRS IN CUBA.

Effects of Dulce's Proclamations—Amnesty for All Political Offenders—Dulce's Latest Manifesto—Change of Sentiment in Havana—Autonomy for Cuba—War Summary—Clerical Movements.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HAVANA, Wednesday, Jan. 13, 1869.

The different proclamations of Gen. DULCE, and the concessions granted therein to the Cubans, have been received here and in the country not yet affected by the revolution with a very great effect. The union of the revolutionary party in Havana has been broken, and dissensions have crept in that will preclude all possibility of singleness of purpose or action on their parts. A great many, formerly staunch adherents of the party, have accepted the rights and privileges conceded, with the best possible grace, and manifest an intention of according to DULCE'S administration an earnest and unqualified support. As a proof of the sincerity of their protestation, a deputation, headed by Messrs. DE ARAZOZA, LAMAGO and COSSIO, and possessing a list of sixty Needs from the Captain-General, have gone to Puerto in the purpose of pleading with the revolutionary leaders for a cessation of resistance on their part to the authority of the Government, and an acceptance of the rights and liberties granted, as being the best thing possible under existing circumstances. I hardly think, however, that the mission undertaken by them will be attended by any favorable results, and believe that the Government of Aguilera and Cespedes will remain energetically all offers of compromise emanating from, whatever quarter. It is, moreover, hardly to be supposed that the efforts of this committee will meet with that respect and consideration on the part of the revolutionists to which they are, probably, entitled, when it is considered that the cause of the Spaniards in the Eastern Department was never before so glowing as it is now. The only reasonable conclusion, seemingly, to be arrived at is that to the force of arms alone, and not to fair words and promises, will be due the suppression of the revolution. If there is any possibility of saving the island for Spain, DULCE is eminently the "right man in the right place," and his conduct thus far has called forth the highest eulogies, even from the avowed enemies of the Spanish domination. As a sample of his principles, and from the importance of a public document, I give below his proclamation of amnesty, published to-day in the Diario and Prensa.

"Superior political Government of the ever faithful Island of Cuba." "Forgetful of the past and hope in the future." These words, written and signed by me, involved a promise, which respect to authority, and the rectitude of my conscience obliged me to comply with. It was prudent, however, before fulfilling it, to examine all the circumstances which produced the present condition of the Island of Cuba. The examination made and the judgment formed, it is natural that I should select a policy that will amalgamate all interests; conciliate all legitimate ambitions, and open to a spacious and cloudless horizon to the patriotism of all.

I, impelled by a sentiment which history will one day qualify, and urged on by one of those resolutions in which passion usurps the place of prudence; if the inexactitude of the few and the impatience of the many, installed the insurrection in Yara, and disturbed, with violent aggression, the calmness and tranquility of this Spanish province, it is now time to employ the remedies necessary to put an end to such a lamentable calamity. It matters not that the standard of rebellion still waves in the eastern and western parts of this Imperial portion of the Spanish nationality. I have come here to resolve the difficulties of administration and government by a liberal policy, and I will follow in this path until the complete development of like by in its most necessary manifestations is effected—until the Government is fixed upon a solid foundation.

I speak with frankness. It will not be the fault of the Provisional Government of the nation, nor of the authority which in its name has returned to you already important political rights, if unfortunately the fratricidal contest continues any longer.

In the etcetera, then, of the extraordinary faculties with which I am clothed by the Provisional Government of the nation, I decree the following:

ARTICLE 1.—Amnesty is conceded to all those who for political causes are suffering punishment, are under accusation or imprison, all of whom will immediately be set at liberty, and may return at their times without being molested for their acts or opinions anterior to the publication of this decree.

ART. 2.—All those who, in the space of forty days shall lay down their arms, will be entitled to the same privileges.

ART. 3. The suits instituted for political offences, whatever may be the condition they may be found in, will be considered terminated, and they will be remitted to the office of the Secretary of the Government.

ART. 4. The Governor and Lieut.-Governor will give notice of the compliance with this decree.

DOMINGO DULCE.

HAVANA, 12th January, 1869.

The proclamation granting freedom of discussion to the Press has also been published, but as I gave you a synopsis of its contents in my last, I refrain from inserting it here.

CHANGE OF FEELING IN HAVANA.

To the recent privileges granted the Press we are indebted for the inundation of small fry periodicals that are now deluging Havana, and promise to become as "thick as leaves in Vallambrosa." Their politics consist in publishing a lot of miserable trash, which they dignify by the name of poetry, laudatory of Gen. DULCE and the new liberties they are enjoying. As yet no good liberal-progressive organ has made its appearance, although it is expected that one will shortly appear, combining talent with devotedness to the real interests of Cuba.

COLONIAL ASSEMBLY FOR CUBA.

Deputations from the corporations of Cienfuegos and Trinidad were appointed to felicitate Gen. Dulce on his safe arrival. The Cienfuegos deputation were kindly received by DULCE, and they entered, on the part of those whose representatives they were, the right of Cuba to her own autonomy. Gen. DULCE, in replying, thanked them for their warm expressions of sympathy and support, and in answer to their demand informed them that autonomy might come in the course of time, but that he was convinced that at present it would not only be injudicious but dangerous for the general welfare of all.

POPULARITY OF THE NEW CAPTAIN-GENERAL.

At the Tacon Theatre, on Saturday evening, Gen. Dulce appeared and was received with hearty demonstrations of welcome by the greater part of the audience. The Riego Hymn was sung by the company and added to the general enthusiasm. Many "Vivas" were given for DULCE, who responded to them by crying "Viva Cuba." I question very much if many of the rabid revolutionists would really prove as liberal in their ideas as Gen. DULCE. The following characteristic anecdote of him is now going the rounds here: Shortly after his inauguration, a body of citizens collected in one of the thoroughfares and gave vent to plenty of radical cries, such as "Free to Liberal," "Cuba," &c., when one of the clamorers ran to inform the Captain-General of the supposed danger to the public peace. The latter listened to the story very quietly, and, then, with a mischievous sparkle in his eye, he remarked, "Oh! don't alarm yourself, my dear Sir, these people have been troubled for a long time with disease of the throat, from their lungs not having been exercised sufficiently; I have been troubled myself considerably, and I can assure you there is nothing in the world so efficacious for it as plenty of 'vivas.' Let the poor fellows vivas as much as they please.

SUMMARY OF REVOLUTIONARY NEWS.

The most conflicting reports are in circulation here this morning, and it is almost impossible to arrive at a rational estimate of the real condition of affairs in the revolutionary district. Cuban accounts state that VALMASEDA had forces were hemmed in by the revolutionists under QUESADA and SANTA LUCIA, on the road from San Miguel to Cascorro, and that a large portion of VALMASEDA's military train has been captured. They assert also—though how they can get their information I am unable to state—that Gen. RUBIN has received a letter from VALMASEDA, in which the latter states that, if reinforcements are not forwarded promptly, he will be compelled to surrender. Spanish accounts state, on the contrary, that VALMASEDA and LESCA had effected a junction, and given battle to the insurgents; that the latter were defeated, and Bayamo taken possession of, VALMASEDA leaving a garrison of 100 men in the city, which force, however, was afterward withdrawn. The cholera is reported as having arrived there, and was commencing great ravages among all classes. Letters received here from Santiago de Cuba state that the revolutionists have left the neighborhood of that city, and the plantations in the vicinity for a circle of ten leagues have commenced working again. At Guantanamo, recently, the authorities detained a payment on a freight train about to leave that point, and captured 200 pounds of powder, which was to be served to the revolutionists. PABLO PARRA, who was attending the transportation of the powder, and the director of the railroad, Mr. FORSTER, had both been arrested, and all communications with them had been interdicted. They will be tried by a military commission.

TRADE.

The Police authorities of this city are exercising great vigilance just now, in order to smother, in its incipient, any attempt at creating a revolution. A party of them paid a visit last night to the "Figaro Cigar Factory," to take possession of a box of arms, of the arrival of which they had received information. Resistance was offered by a body of the employes of the factory under one FERMIN VAMBES LAON, and a mêlée ensued, in which a Colonel policeman was killed, and several men on both sides were wounded. VAMBES and some of the comrades were arrested, and are now in prison. Meanwhile the arms have been taken possession of by the Police and the demonstration has been squelched.

SECRETARY MORALES.

The priest of the parish church of Trinidad, who was arrested and lodged in jail by order of Gen. LEBURNIOU, still remains there awaiting the action of the Judicial authorities. The accusation against him is charged with the killing of his own child—illegitimate of course. The evidence collected against him is said to be overwhelming.

Gen. McClellan's Letter to Gov. Haight, of California.

His Excellency H. H. Haight, Governor of California:

MY DEAR SIR: I have received your telegram of Nov. 11, as well as your letter of the same date. I regret extremely that, after a full consideration of the subject, I feel compelled to decline the very flattering appointment of President of the California University. It finally offered was by the Board of Regents.

I am sensible of the importance of the position and of the many attractions it offers me in every way, and were I differently situated, it would afford me the greatest pleasure to undertake a duty so entirely in accordance with my tastes, and which must lead to such important results. In common with all who have visited the Pacific coast, I have been deeply impressed by the certainty of the great future development, and have retained a strong desire to make it my home, so that I doubly regret the necessity of declining the proffered Presidency.

May I ask you, Governor, to communicate to the Board of Regents my earnest thanks for the great honor they have conferred upon me, and my regret that I cannot respond to their call; and will you accept for yourself my thanks for the kind courtesy with which you have communicated the appointment to me?

With the hope that at no distant day I may have the pleasure of thanking you all in person.

In all, Governor, most respectfully and sincerely yours,

GEO. B. MCCLELLAN.

FIRST MORTGAGE TWENTY-YEAR SEVEN PER CENT.

GOLD BONDS.

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD COIN.

COUPONS PAYABLE FIRST JANUARY AND JULY, AT NATIONAL PARK BANK, NEW-YORK, FREE OF GOVERNMENT TAX.

THE UNDERSIGNED NOW OFFER FOR SALE A LIMITED NUMBER OF THE ABOVE DESIRABLE BONDS, AT PAR, WITH ACCRUED INTEREST IN CURRENCY.

The total amount of Bonds authorized to be issued is $8,250,000,

LESS THAN $2,000 PER MILE.

THE LARGEST PORTION OF THIS ISSUE HAS ALREADY BEEN SOLD.

THESE BONDS ARE SECURED BY A FIRST MORTGAGE ON THE ENTIRE PROPERTY OF THE COMPANY, including their valuable LANDS, WHARVES and WATER PRIVILEGES at Vallejo and elsewhere.

Total length of road, 105 miles.

Finished, fully stocked and equipped, and now running from Vallejo to Sacramento, 51 miles.

The monthly earnings of this portion of the road are now nearly five times the monthly interest on the entire issue of Bonds.

This road is the most direct route between San Francisco and Sacramento, reducing the time between those points by three and one-half hours.

The Marysville line is in process of construction; the grading nearly completed, one-third of the iron on hand, and the balance purchased, shipped and expected to arrive in February. The road will be completed early this season, and when finished the total net revenue should amount to at least $2,000 gold per day.

The road-bed is of most substantial character—permanent, solid and completely ballasted. The iron is of the best quality. The rolling stock and equipment are in good order, and ample for the business.

The country through which this road runs is entirely annual from either snow, ice or frost, and its agricultural resources are those of any portion of the State.

From personal examination and inspection of the Bonds, received by us from reliable parties in California, of the great present value, and future prospects of this road, we can consistently and honestly recommend these securities to our friends and the public as a first-class investment.

Either of the undersigned will receive subscriptions and deliver Bonds.

Government securities, at market rates, will be taken in exchange for these Bonds.

Circulars, maps and further information can be had on application to either of the subscribers.

PEREMPTORY SALE OF 400 LOTS,

PART OF

The Morris-Stebbins Tract.

ADRIAN H. MULLER, P. R. WILKINS & CO. will sell at auction on THURSDAY, Jan. 28, 1869, at 12 o'clock M., at the Exchange Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, New-York,

400 VALUABLE BUILDING LOTS,

SITUATED ON

a continuation of the 5th and 8th-avs. Boulevard, about three-quarters of a mile from Harlem Bridge, in Westchester County, on a line with 116th-st., and about 1,200 feet from the Morrisania and Melrose Stations on the Harlem Railroad, and one-quarter of a mile from Fordham horse cars, making the property accessible at all hours of day or night.

It is now proposed to place this portion of Westchester County under the charge of the CENTRAL PARK COMMISSIONERS.

This property thus situated offers unusual inducements, either as an investment or for the purpose of opening suburban residences, combining the advantages of city and country.

ALBANY.

Election of United States Senator—Absentees and Incidents—Committees to be Announced on Wednesday—Fenton's Appointees on the Anxious Seat—Proposal to Increase the Salaries of Judges of the Court of Appeals.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Tuesday, Jan. 19, 1869.

The Democratic caucus, last evening, having put Senator MURPHY in the field as candidate for the United States Senatorship in opposition to FENTON, both Houses of the Legislature this morning proceeded to an election, or rather a "nomination," as the law terms it. The result showed that REUBEN E. FENTON had a majority of votes in each House, and, accordingly, when the two Houses meet in convention to-morrow to compare nominations, he will be declared duly elected. The vote in the Assembly stood, 75 for FENTON to 46 for MURPHY, showing two Republicans and seven Democrats absent, or not voting. The names of the absent Republicans are HOYT and SCHOONMAKER; Democrats, IRVING, KIERNAN, HOWARD, PEARSALL, THORN and TILDEN. The absentees in the Senate were HALE and STANFORD on the Republican side, and CAULDWELL, CREAMER, NORTON and BRADLEY on the Democratic, so that the vote stood 16 for FENTON and 11 for MURPHY. Had all the Democrats been present, they could have prevented a nomination in the Senate; but it would have made no difference in the final result, as the vote in joint convention, which would then have become necessary, would have elected FENTON. No incident worthy of note occurred while taking the vote in the Assembly; but in the Senate, when Mr. FOLGER's name was called, he arose and said, "I nominate the candidate of my party, (sarcastically,) REUBEN E. FENTON." Mr. GRANT followed by saying, "I nominate the candidate of my party, HENRY C. MURPHY." Mr. NICHOLS said, "I not only nominate the candidate of my party, but a man eminently qualified to fill the position—HENRY C. MURPHY."

Thus has ended the long and bitter contest over the United States Senatorship, and the public may now reasonably hope to see some progress made in legislation. It is now said that Speaker SCHOONMAKER will announce the Assembly Committees to-morrow immediately after the joint Convention of the two Houses. He denies that he has made any personal promises to candidates for positions on the Committees during the Senatorial contest, and claims not to be bound, morally or in any other way, by promises made by others. Yet he must have known that these promises were being made by his friends with a view to influence the contest, and so he withheld the announcement of the Committees till after it was over, he cannot save himself from the charge of helping and encouraging the course of his friends, although he may not personally have forced their promises. If he can so smooth things over as to smother the wrath of the disappointed candidates after the announcement of the Committees is made, he will show himself a better political manager than he has thus far proved a parliamentarian.

FENTON's harbor masters, port wardens, and other fat functionaries, who are holding over in their snug berths by reason of the political antagonism between the appointing and the confirming power, are in a feverish state of anxiety as to what will be the effect of the late Senatorial fight on their future prospects. They know that there are not very numerous in the present Republican Senate, and they are not overanxious to keep his appointees in power provided they can get rid of them without putting worse men in their places. It looks as though here was a chance for Gov. HOFFMAN to make a little arrangement with his constitutional advisers that shall be mutually satisfactory, and at the same time bring a new opponent of State pap to the hungry Democracy. At any rate, FENTON's men are evidently afraid that something of this kind will be done, and several of his hold-over officials are now here, and more are coming to see how the land lies. The bitterness engendered in the Senatorial fight will not die out for some time to come, and it is reasonable to expect that the defeated party will get in a dig at their exultant antagonists whenever they see a chance. The only difficulty is to do it without appearing to go over to the common enemy.

Both House went into Committee of the Whole for a short time to-day, and moved forward several local bills. Among the new bills was one noticed by Senator WILLIAMS for an increase of the salaries of the Judges of the Court of Appeals to $6,000, and of the Supreme Court to $5,000. They now get $3,500.

Summary of Bills Before the Assembly.

The following is a summary of the bills before the Assembly:

Mr. ALLAIRE's bill proposes that after May 1, 1869, each patrolman and roundsman of the Metropolitan Police shall receive, annually, $1,600; and each doorman $1,200.

Mr. MACHEN's bill proposes that the Hudson River and Harlem Railroad Companies shall not charge more than one cent per quart freight on milk for any distance.

Mr. BENEDICT's bill provides that the proprietors of newspapers may charge for publishing legal notices, orders, citations or summons, not more than one dollar per folio for the first insertion, and fifty cents for each additional insertion. This law is not to affect the present rates of compensation for the publication of the session laws, nor to proceedings in Surrogates' Courts or notices of sales of deceased persons.

Mr. CONARD's bill provides for giving every railroad company a road of twenty miles during the years 1869 or 1870, $4,000 a mile from the general fund of the State, and imposing a tax of three-quarters of a mill on each dollar on the real and personal property of the State to carry out the law.

Mr. SHERMAN's bill proposes to direct the Commissioners of the Central Park to set aside a strip of land within the Park boundaries for the purpose of drill, parade and review of infantry, to be used by the First Division of the National Guard.

Mr. BURNS' bill proposes to compel long stock companies to file the name and address of corporators with the clerk of the county, in which such company have their business office.

Mr. RICHMOND's bill proposes to compel publishers of newspapers to print in each edition of their papers a statement of the number or copies printed of the preceding number.

Mr. FLAGG's bill provides that in the trial of indictments or other proceedings against persons charged with crime, the person charged may be deemed a competent witness.

STATE MILITARY ASSOCIATION.

Annual Meeting—Gen. Appleyard's Address.

The State Military Association of New-York met at noon yesterday in Steinway Hall, and organized with the officers of last year, as follows: President, Brig.-Gen. LLOYD APPLEYARD; First Vice-President, Col. C. H. THOMPSON; Second Vice-President, Major-Gen. R. L. HOWARD; Third Vice-President, Brig.-Gen. E. A. BROWN; Fourth Vice-President, Brig.-Gen. H. D. EARTO; Recording Secretary, Lieut.-Col. HENRY HEALY; Corresponding Secretary, Major F. M. WEEKES; Treasurer, Col. F. A. CONKLING; Chaplain, Rev. E. C. SPRAGUE, D. D.

After an hour's recess, during which payment of dues took place, the President, Gen. APPLEYARD, delivered his annual address.

ADDRESS OF GEN. APPLEYARD.

After complimenting Gen. GRANT, and expressing confidence in the ability of his coming administration, he alluded to the talent of Gov. HOFFMAN in State craft, his honesty of purpose, and proceeded in the following terms:

Certain of our county financiers, rural Solons, have hatched schemes for curtailing the support granted by law to our State troops. They would repeal the commutation law; they would by doubt prohibit the erection of armories; no doubt they would be pleased to see a law passed granting the National Guard the privilege of arming and sustaining itself. These political economists would be the first to denounce the inefficiency of the State militia, should no properly-organized troops resist his their locality, in the event of an appeal to arms for the preservation of the peace being requisite. I have no patience with such men, and, while no apprehension need be entertained that their designs will be accomplished, it is to be regretted that they have been placed in positions which permit them, as public officers, to promulgate such perversions of common sense. We ask of the State simply the necessary for the support of the State militia. Let the numbers be fixed as the law-making powers may deem proper and adequate, but for such numbers we ask proper and reasonable support, perfectly to be armed, equipped, clothed and housed; and this granted, then enough of the rights which the State has to fill our ranks—men who will expend dollar for dollar with the State, out of their own pockets, in meeting the various expenditures which a justifiable esprit de corps prompts them to incur. Let us hear no more of this penny-wise and pound-foolish doctrine, but plainly tell our legislators that we demand a support which shall enable the State, in accepting our services, is bound in honor, in justice and in reason to appropriate. I deprecate the repeal of the Commutation law, because no other exists for raising funds for the support of the National Guard. At the same time, I am inclined to believe that provision made in the State tax for commutation would be more satisfactory to the people and more readily collected, but in the absence of any such accompanying counterbalance, a repeal of the existing law would leave us almost penniless. Should such provision be made in the General TAX LEVY, the members of the National Guard would, it is true, in most instances be contributors; as they would be relieved by law from taxation upon certain sums, which sums should be expended in the event of this new method of providing funds being adopted. The amendments to the Military code adopted at the last session of the Legislature were confined to the authorization of a military Board of Examination; a system of enrollment and assessment to be made by the city, village, town or ward assessors, annually, to be entitled the "Military Roll," and a provision that all officers of the staff of the Commander-in-Chief, in lieu of all compensations and allowances hitherto provided by law in time of peace, shall receive such compensation as is provided for officers of the same rank when upon actual duty. The only exception made in this provision is in the case of the Adjutant-General, whose salary is fixed at $3,000 per annum. Of the recommendations of the Association adopted at its last meeting, you are no doubt all aware of the direction made of its staff. The recommendation that in any reduction of the National Guard, total disbandment of inefficient commands be resorted to, seems to have been approved of by the Commander-in-Chief, and by General Orders No. 14, General Headquarters, Jan. 6, 1868, forty-two regiments, fifty-two company organizations, and one battery of artillery, were disbanded and mustered out of the service. The recommendation that the right of entrance be granted to the First Division into Central Park for brigade or division drills and reviews was lost in Committee. The recommendation of the association in this respect was greatly strengthened by a petition, from the members of the division, most extensively signed and delivered by myself to the Honorable Speaker of the Assembly, and by him presented to that body, and referred to the Committee on Cities, to which Committee the bill to grant entrance into the Park had been committed. The recommendation that the words "eighteen years" in place of twenty-one years, in sec. 30, Military Code, was not passed upon, nor was the repeal of sec. 138 of Addenda accepted. The free passage upon all railroads of this State was not considered advisable, and no action was taken in relation to restoring to those divisions deprived of the right to elect brigade commanders that reasonable privilege. The speaker then urged a modification of existing laws regarding active duty in the National Guard. Considerable difficulty, he said, was experienced in obtaining enrollments, and this was owing to the prolonged term of service required. He recommended a reduction of the term to four years, with an additional four of reserve duty, all such reserve members being retained upon their company rolls as such. In Connecticut, New-Hampshire and Ohio the term is four years; in Massachusetts three years, and in the Canadas a like period. The speaker recommended the organization of camps of instruction, and quoted a suggestion to that effect in Gov. FENTON's Message of 1866. He said that Connecticut required an annual parade, or encampment by brigade or regiment, for six successive days, and once in two years by division. It also directs that in May each company shall be exercised in target practice. Massachusetts requires Fall encampments of five days' duration; New-Hampshire, an annual encampment of three days; New-Jersey, four days, five hours of each day being devoted to target practice. Ohio does not exact encampments, but requires target practice. Canada also urges it, and lays great stress upon it. The Canadian ranges average 200 yards, and often 500 yards. Our laws do not say that encampments shall be ordered, but merely empower the Commander-in-Chief to order them. The speaker hoped that something would be done to arouse the authorities to action upon this vital subject, and entered considerably into detail upon its necessity. He urged an appeal to the present Legislature on the subject. The speaker said that the legislated pay of the New-York troops was less than that of other States, and even this was not provided for. Bill pay change was advocated, believing that sustenance, not compensation, was essential. A table was then given of the approximate annual number of active militia in the United States. New-Hampshire, he said, had 1,650 men, comprising twenty-seven companies of infantry, one of cavalry, one of heavy artillery and two sections of light artillery; Massachusetts had ninety-two companies of infantry, six of cavalry and four batteries of light artillery, 6,000 men in all. Rhode Island, thirty-five companies of infantry and four of cavalry, 2,496 in all. Connecticut, five regiments of infantry and a battalion of light artillery, 3,097 in all. Pennsylvania had on all arms about 4,500 men. New-Jersey, in her side corps, 9,890 men, and in active militia, 968. Vermont, three regiments of infantry and one battery of artillery, in all 1,400 men. New-York had fifty-one regiments and three battalions of infantry, three regiments, two battalions of cavalry and one company of artillery, and one regiment of artillery, in all 27,727 men. The Kentucky Legion, the Maryland troops, and the scattered companies in other States, reach about 2,500 men, making the aggregate of organized militia 52,410 men. The speaker considered that this number was much out of proportion to the entire militia, which numbered, as appeared at 30,000 men, fully armed and equipped.

The speaker closed by thanking the Association for his reflection to its Presidency.

RESOLUTIONS.

After a vote of thanks for the address, sundry resolutions were passed, as follows:

To make the Governor's staff honorary members of the Association, and remit their initiation fees.

To request a bill to the Legislature to revise set from section 107, Military Code, relating to the pay of brigade inspectors, and that a fund of $300 be appropriated for each brigade, to defray printing and other expense, to be paid yearly by the Comptroller.

To request Legislature to amend section 30 of the code requiring the term of service to five years, and that a specified amount of duty should be performed before a discharge may be given.

That a Committee of five be appointed by the Chair for the purpose of endeavoring to procure a change in the code of militia laws of this State, in order to compel the Adjutant-General to enforce the laws.

To appoint a Committee to wait upon the Governor and ask, now in this City, to ascertain when it would be agreeable to them to receive and escort their escort to the reception room of the Twenty-second Regiment Armory, and also to hear the annual address the evening at Steinway Hall.

That Major-Gens. A. B. DURYEA, S. S. SCROGGINS, and Brig.-Gens. GEO. E. DANFORTH and JESSE C. SMITH be elected honorary members of the Association.

That it is the desire of the Association that an amendment be made to the code, obliging commanding officers of regiments, battalions and battalions to file a roster of their respective commands annually with the Commissioner of Jurors and Board of Assessors, and that certificates of membership be retained by commanding officers of companies and batteries until the whole amount of service required by law shall have been performed by the persons entitled to them.

That one thousand copies of the present proceedings be distributed.

That thanks be tendered to Col. STEINWAY for the gratuitous use of his Hall.

A report was then read, as follows; in conformity with the resolutions passed at the last meeting with reference to guidons and medals, your officers submit the following report: On the 30th of November last the President addressed communications to the division commanders, containing the two resolutions, and requesting that reports be sent in by the 15th of December, which time was afterward extended to the 12th of this month. The following reports have been received from the First, Second and Eighth Divisions, as to the action taken by the Commanding Generals, and which are here appended. The First makes no return of regiment entitled to guidon. It returns the names of fifteen candidates for medals. The Second Division makes no return of regiment, nor does it return the names of candidates with a view to the medal. The Eighth returns the Seventy-fourth Regiment as the best drilled in its command, and demands for it the guidons. It returns one candidate for a medal. No instructions were received as to how the guidon of superiority was to be decided, other than is contained in the resolutions themselves, and your President being of the opinion that immediately after the annual inspection was the best time for forming an judgment as to the respective conditions of regiments, turned his notice to division commanders accordingly, as it appears that many of the command of the First and Second Divisions would desire that the award of the guidons might be made after they had had opportunity for competitive drill; and as the same desire may prevail in the rural districts, your attention is called to this fact—that no appropriation was made for the expenses of these guidons and medals, and at least $1,000 will be required immediately.

This report was adopted, and considerable discussion ensued. To the inspection of the Executive Committee was instructed to examine the law with reference to the appointment of Commissioners for opening sections of new streets, to see if it could not be so interpreted as to give the nomination of such Commissioners to the property-holders and the Park Commissioners. The speaker read a bill for opening two blocks of Seventy-second-street, contains of which land the others were on a similar scale; was $200 for posting notices—that is, for posting three printed notices on rocks and fences in the vicinity.

The Association then adjourned.

Fire at the Derby Athenæum—Damage $50,000.

At 9:20 P. M. yesterday a fire broke out on the second floor of the premises No. 660 Broadway, occupied by the Derby Athenæum, H. W. DERBY, proprietor. The room in which the flames originated is used for the storage and exhibition of celebrated pictures and works of art, among which are several very valuable pictures by leading artists, though their names could not be ascertained. All of these pictures were entirely destroyed, causing a loss of $20,000. ROTHERMEL's celebrated picture entitled "President Lincoln's Last Reception in the White House," and valued at $20,000, was so much injured by the heat that it is considered entirely worthless. The stock on the first floor of the establishment fortunately escaped any material injury, and the damage to the building is estimated at $500. Mr. Derby has an insurance of $50,000, which is understood to cover all loss on these works of art. The proprietor, also, has an insurance of $12,000 on his lease and improvements. The building is owned by the East River Bank, which has an insurance of $40,000 thereon.

Serious Affray in a Railroad Car.

At about 6 o'clock last evening a quarrel broke out among some members of the Newark militia who were returning from Trenton, where they were detailed as part of the escort to Gov. RANDOLPH at his inauguration. It appears that a dispute with two or three Jersey City men was the occasion of the row, which resulted in blows, and was only quieted at last by the pacific efforts of other passengers. Prominent among those who endeavored to make peace between the disputants was Mr. HAYNOR, a Justice of the Peace in Jersey City, who resumed his seat after quiet was restored, with no apprehensions of danger. He was soon attacked, however, by one of the Newarkers, whose name is unknown, and severely beaten with the stock of the fellow's musket. Mr. HAYNOR was sitting in his seat wholly unprotected, and in this position received three blows upon the head and shoulders before the passengers could interfere. Another blow fell upon the back of the car-seat, breaking the stock of the musket into splinters. The Newarker "edged" was then thrust into custody by the passengers, but was rescued by his comrades. His name is not known, and having slipped out of sight and made his escape there is no means of identifying him.

Prof. Schlagentweit on "High Asia."

Prof. SCHLAGENTWEIT gave the third lecture of his course on "High Asia" last evening, at the rooms of the Historical Society. He continued the description of his journey over the Himalaya Mountains, describing as he went the religious rites of the Buddhist worshippers, their wonderful temples, and their ornaments and mythological representations. He described the appearance of the country, the habits of the people, and gave many interesting facts and figures concerning the configuration and height of the mountains. He illustrated the discourse by exhibiting numerous engravings giving views of the wondrous things he saw on the Himalayas, and diagrams. The lecture was listened to by a small but appreciative audience, with deep interest.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

New-York.

JOSEPH WAGONER quarreled yesterday morning with his wife about some trivial domestic matter in their mutual dwelling, situate in Second-avenue, between Sixty-fifth and Sixty-sixth streets. The quarrel became a bitter one, and very harsh and angry words ensued between them. The altercation was at length ended by JOSEPH hastily bidding his wife and children good-bye and running into the cellar. A moment after the report of a pistol was heard, and the fact was soon ascertained that WAGONER had placed a pistol in his mouth and fired the bullet into his brain, instant death being the result. The deceased was a native of Germany and 50 years of age. Coroner FLYNN has charge of the case and will hold an inquest to-day.

A Sunday School Convention was commenced at Grace Chapel, (Episcopal) Jan. 17, and will be continued each evening to Sunday, the 24th inst. In the absence of the Bishop, Rev. Dr. MORGAN has consented to preside. The object of the Convention is to show the beneficial results of the Sunday Schools, their relations to spiritual life, and to eliminate ideas as to the best mode of conducting them. The opening meeting was quite a full attendance at the chapel. Several clergymen delivered brief and appropriate addresses. Among them were Rev. Dr. WESTON, of St. John's Chapel, Rev. Dr. E. H. TENG, and Rev. Mr. WALKER, of Calvary Chapel. After each address a hymn was sung by the choir. The closing sermon on Sunday will be delivered by Rev. H. F. MORGAN, D. D., of St. Thomas' Church.

Inspector DILKE received a telegram yesterday from Col. EVERTS, Chief of Police in Boston, stating that CHARLES CRAGIN, colored, had stolen a gold neck chain and some clothing and taken passage for New-York on the Providence steamer. The Inspector notified the Fifth Ward Police, and Officer IRVING has evening arrested CRAGIN on the arrival of the steamer. The prisoner is held for the action of the Boston authorities.

A temperance lecture will be delivered this evening in the Sixth-street Baptist Church, between Avenues B and C, under the auspices of Manhattan Division No. 16, Sons of Temperance. There will also be some excellent music by ladies and gentlemen connected with the Order.

The Invincibles, a select organization of merchants and merchants' clerks of this City, gave their second soirée of the season at the Metropolitan Hotel last evening. About 400 couples were present, the supper hall, on the second floor of the hotel, being used for the Terpsichorean exercises. The Invincibles are a chartered association, limited to fifty members, gotten up for social purposes. In addition to its soirée, generally six in number during the Winter season, they give two excursions, one by day and one by moonlight, during the Summer. The officers of the Club are: JOSEPH H. HOPPER, President; EDWARD H. FORDHAM, Vice-President; STEPHEN WHITEHOUSE, Recording Secretary; EDWARD B. HUGHES, Corresponding Secretary, and PHILO A. BEEBE, Treasurer.

The second representation of a series of tableaux vivants, in aid of the Sisterhood of Industry of Christ Church, (Rev. Dr. F. C. Ewer's,) was given at Lyric Hall, No. 722 Broadway, last evening. The tableaux were thirteen in number, last evening, among others, Esther before Ahasuerus, a scene from Guy Mannering, the trial scene in Ivanhoe, the Liberation of St. Peter, and the Death of Marmion. The representations indicated a very artistic appreciation of the subjects essayed, and drew forth the plaudits of a large and select audience.

JOHN T. HARLIL, who resides at the corner of Fifth-avenue and One Hundred and Thirteenth-street, was struck last evening on the head by some person to him unknown, while riding on a third-avenue car. He sustained a fracture of the skull. His head was dressed by Dr. DEVILLENEUVE, after which he was taken home by his friends.

Coroner KIERNAN held an inquest yesterday at the New-York Hospital, over the remains of CHARLES E. GILLOTZ, a native of New-York, aged 29 years, and a conductor on the Erie Railroad. It appears that the deceased was placed in charge of freight train No. 26, from Port Jervis to Jersey City, yesterday, and while attending to the switches was caught between the cars and so severely crushed that death ensued soon after he was admitted to the Hospital. A verdict of accidental death was rendered.

ELLEN JANE MCCOBB, aged 3 years, was severely burned on the body, on the 8th inst., by her clothes accidentally catching fire from a stove. The child lingered until the 16th, when death ensued, and as the cause of death was an accidental one, the Board of Health reported the case to Coroner KIERNAN, who held an inquest.

The twelfth annual ball of the Young Men's Association, in aid of the New-York Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, took place last night at the Academy of Music. The attendance was numerous, and, as in past years, brilliant. The funds of the Asylum will be largely improved by the proceeds.

An altercation occurred on Monday between RICHARD GREEN and PATRICK HOGAN, in the saloon No. 128 Chatham-street. Words were exchanged, and drew a loaded revolver, which he threatened to use. While cocking the weapon it was accidentally discharged, the bullet passing through GREEN's hat, slightly wounding the latter.

Brooklyn.

THE STATE MILITARY ASSOCIATION.

This Association met yesterday evening at the Everett Rooms. The report of the Executive Committee was read and accepted. A resolution was offered calling for the immediate completion of all the boulevards, streets, avenues and parks on the West side. Mr. WHITEHOUSE read a speech on the subject stating, among other facts, that there were about one hundred miles of streets and avenues on the west side still requiring grading, involving about as much work as the grading of one hundred miles of railroad. A railroad would accomplish this in a year or two. The City, at the present rate of activity, will be blasting rocks and filling in with dirt thirty years hence. The resolution was accepted. The next resolution was to petition the Legislature to repeal the grade of Eighth-avenue, established by the Central Park Commissioners, the grade specified in the New-York City Tax Levy bill being solely for the interest of one or two property holders, and prejudicial to the interests of the City. After some remarks from Mr. KING this was passed. D. H. HALLY drew a lively contrast between the way in which the Park Commissioners do their work and the way of the Common Council, and offered a resolution of thanks to the Park Commissioners for the satisfactory manner in which they are grading the boulevard between Fifty-ninth-street and One Hundred and Fifty-fifth-street. Table was adopted. A resolution was to petition the Hudson and Harlem Railroad Companies to run frequent accommodation trains between their depots in town and Harlem River. This was passed. Gen. BUTTERFIELD offered a resolution to suggest to the Hudson Railroad Company the practicableness of building a double track above Tarrytown and from St. John's Park to Spuyten Duyvil Creek. It was stated that Mr. VANDERBILT a year ago expressed a desire to accommodate the public by frequent trains on this end of the Hudson River road, and that a third track is now in process of laying. The resolution was adopted. A resolution could not be adopted on the Harlem Road on account of the New-Haven Company's use of the track. The Executive Committee was instructed to consider the subject of Gen. BUTTERFIELD's resolution. A resolution was passed to request the Eighth-avenue Railroad Company to run cars to One Hundred and Twenty-fifth-street during the entire night, thirty-six cars. A resolution was offered declaring that the old Croton Aqueduct from Seventy-third-street to One Hundred and Twelfth-street, is an obstruction to East and West travel, and demanding the removal of the aqueduct to Tenth-avenue. A committee was appointed to confer with the Croton Aqueduct Board. The Executive Committee was instructed to consider the propriety of assessing on the City at large one-half the expense of new parks. Mr. CLARK spoke of his experience on the London underground railway, and testified to its comfortableness and desirability. He said that the employes were not specially liable to sickness. The Executive Committee was instructed to examine the law with reference to the appointment of Commissioners for opening sections of new streets, to see if it could not be so interpreted as to give the nomination of such Commissioners to the property-holders and the Park Commissioners. The speaker read a bill for opening two blocks of Seventy-second-street, contains of which land the others were on a similar scale; was $200 for posting notices—that is, for posting three printed notices on rocks and fences in the vicinity.

The Association then adjourned.

The Invincibles, a select organization of merchants and merchants' clerks of this City, gave their second soirée of the season at the Metropolitan Hotel last evening. About 400 couples were present, the supper hall, on the second floor of the hotel, being used for the Terpsichorean exercises. The Invincibles are a chartered association, limited to fifty members, gotten up for social purposes. In addition to its soirée, generally six in number during the Winter season, they give two excursions, one by day and one by moonlight, during the Summer. The officers of the Club are: JOSEPH H. HOPPER, President; EDWARD H. FORDHAM, Vice-President; STEPHEN WHITEHOUSE, Recording Secretary; EDWARD B. HUGHES, Corresponding Secretary, and PHILO A. BEEBE, Treasurer.

The second representation of a series of tableaux vivants, in aid of the Sisterhood of Industry of Christ Church, (Rev. Dr. F. C. Ewer's,) was given at Lyric Hall, No. 722 Broadway, last evening. The tableaux were thirteen in number, last evening, among others, Esther before Ahasuerus, a scene from Guy Mannering, the trial scene in Ivanhoe, the Liberation of St. Peter, and the Death of Marmion. The representations indicated a very artistic appreciation of the subjects essayed, and drew forth the plaudits of a large and select audience.

JOHN T. HARLIL, who resides at the corner of Fifth-avenue and One Hundred and Thirteenth-street, was struck last evening on the head by some person to him unknown, while riding on a third-avenue car. He sustained a fracture of the skull. His head was dressed by Dr. DEVILLENEUVE, after which he was taken home by his friends.

Coroner KIERNAN held an inquest yesterday at the New-York Hospital, over the remains of CHARLES E. GILLOTZ, a native of New-York, aged 29 years, and a conductor on the Erie Railroad. It appears that the deceased was placed in charge of freight train No. 26, from Port Jervis to Jersey City, yesterday, and while attending to the switches was caught between the cars and so severely crushed that death ensued soon after he was admitted to the Hospital. A verdict of accidental death was rendered.

ELLEN JANE MCCOBB, aged 3 years, was severely burned on the body, on the 8th inst., by her clothes accidentally catching fire from a stove. The child lingered until the 16th, when death ensued, and as the cause of death was an accidental one, the Board of Health reported the case to Coroner KIERNAN, who held an inquest.

The twelfth annual ball of the Young Men's Association, in aid of the New-York Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, took place last night at the Academy of Music. The attendance was numerous, and, as in past years, brilliant. The funds of the Asylum will be largely improved by the proceeds.

An altercation occurred on Monday between RICHARD GREEN and PATRICK HOGAN, in the saloon No. 128 Chatham-street. Words were exchanged, and drew a loaded revolver, which he threatened to use. While cocking the weapon it was accidentally discharged, the bullet passing through GREEN's hat, slightly wounding the latter.
